Casey Recouping From Burns, Cuts

By James Hollas

"It was like a dream", Cameron crop - duster pilot Bob Casey, said as he lay in a hospital bed at Rockdale.

He is recovering from severe burns and cuts suffered in the crash of his plane 9 miles south of Rockdale Tuesday, May 28.

He took off from the Cameron airport that afternoon and flew to Rockdale where he was to dust a watermelon field for Gene Arledge.

"Everything seemed like a dream", he said as he thought back on the experience. "I had a hard time getting my shoulder harness and seat belt off."

"I noticed a small fire up front and knew that I had to get out. Somehow I got out of the plane," the blond - haired pilot said.

They hurried to the site. The plane caught fire and was a mass of flames. Casey was semi - conscious and was wandering around in the woods after the crash.

He rushed up to Key and said, "Take me to the hospital." He collapsed and Key picked him up and rushed him to the Hospital in Spence's car.

"After I collapsed, I can't remember a thing that happened until I woke up in the emergency room," he said.

Here, he was treated for severe burns on his body, a cut on his right arm that required 17 stitches to close, cuts on the head, legs and other parts of the body and the removal of several thorns.

The plane had been inspected by the FCC only a few days before the crash and the take off was smooth and quick. The engine was running smooth. The flight over to Rockdale was routine.

He spotted Arledge at the crossroads where he was to meet him. Aredge was to lead the plane to the 125 acres of watermelons because there are a lot of watermelon fields in the area.

Casey was flying in a circle so that he could follow this pickup.

The engine was running smoothly and everything seemed okay. But as he was coming out of a left turn he couldn't get enough power to fly. He was only about 200 feet high.

"I tried to pull the nose of the plane up, but I didn't have enough power," the 30 - year old said.

He kept trying to get the nose up, but with no success. He took the top wire off a fence and hit in a dirt road which joins FM 908.

"The prop cut into the dirt nine times before it came to rest. You can see the cuts in the earth," he said. He had been out to the scene twice since it happened.

The plane lost the right landing gear.

"The prop hit a tree dead center about a foot off the ground The tree was almost as big as my waist," he said.

Then the plane hit another tree on his right and the impact knocked him almost unconscious.

He thinks that the thorns removed from his body were picked up after he got out of the plane.

The entire plane took only a few minutes to burn. It was a hot fire. The tall trees he hit were burned to the top.

The plane was loaded with about 25 gallons of gas and 85 gallons of poison. The poison was mixed with about 80 gallons of water.

Casey thinks the cause of the engine failure was possibly carburator icing. The engine never missed or ran rough.

"I have had icing conditions before and this was similar," he said.

He credits his shoulder harness for saving his life. It kept him from being tossed around in the plane and getting knocked out.

The plane had only a few hours engine flight time and it had been inspected by the FCC only a few days before. This was the first trip, and very nearly Casey's last.

Casey himself underwent a routine pilot examination on April 1 in Waco and was in good shape. There were no limitations on the report.

He had been flying since 1952 and had been spraying and dusting since 1957.

He has a wife and four children. The children Bobby, 12, Barbara Ann, 10, Sharon Kay 8, and Marvin Roy, 4. They live in Cameron. He moved here about three years ago from Harlingen.

It was not his first crash. He had cracked up a plane on take off in 1957 in the Rio Grande valley. The brakes locked on the plane as he moved down the runway. The wing caught a parked pickup and the plane did a cartwheel.

It did not burn and he credited the shoulder harness for saving his life.

He also had two or three forcelandings but these were the only two crackups.

After this, one might expect him to quit flying but he said he likes it and will go on flying.

"If this had happened in a car, the publicity would have been very little," he said.

I think the worse thing about flying is driving to the airport in your car," he laughed.

"The Doctor buries his mistakes
The Barber cuts more off
The Dentist pulls another one
And the Intern says "Now Cough"
The Undertaker covers up
The Chef just calls it hash
The Bootlegger sells it anyway
And blames it on the mash.
The husband gets a clear divorce
The ex - wife gets more dough
But woes be on the printer
If a name has not an "e".
He's called up on the telephone
Both blind and dumb is he
Though he only did the best he could.
And probably for free."

We would like to start a 50-year subscribers club for The Cameron Herald.

During the current subscription campaign, the John Olbrichs, of Burlington, told us that they had taken the paper for 51 years.

If you are a 50 - year subscriber or know someone that has taken the paper that long, write in and tell us about them, how long they've lived in Milam County or Cameron.

Safety Markers Due On 77 Site

Safety signs and 45 m.p.h. speed limits will be erected in the next few days on the 12 - mile construction project along US 77 north to the Falls County line, according to Carroll Zeigler, Hearne resident engineer.

And he said the same safety markers, to include flagmen as earth moving equipment begins to operate, will be posted along the 2.6-mile US 79 project at Milano.

About 5 per cent complete, the US 77 north project will see fill working beginning soon, Zeigler told The Herald.

SAFETY WARNING

"I want to warn residents along the route and drivers that we will start earth moving operations soon prior to putting the base," he said

There will be detour markers along the existing 24 - foot-wide project, he said, but that vehicles will be directed along the route and not through some side road detour.

"We hope drivers will be especially on the lookout for flagmen as well as traffic control markers along the project," Zeigler emphasized. "The highway patrol will enforce the speed limits for the safety of through traffic."

Drainage structures beneath the present base of the road are being installed by the construction workers. Basework will follow earth fill along the entire 12- mile project, about a million dollar program.

26 - FOOT ROAD

The new driving surface will be a modern two - lane roadway 26 feet wide, Zeigler said, with nine-foot lanes on each side for additional trafic room.

The project now appears headed for completion sometime next spring on US 77 and US 79 intersection work in Milano.

Earth moving will begin next week in Milano. The same road widths and structural features are being built to modern specifications there.

Zeigler also reported that work will be completed within the next two weeks on FM Rd. 2095 from Milano to Liberty. The farm - to - market road will be a standard 20 - foot roadway, be said.

Jury Finds $2,000 Damages

Attorneys Seek Judgment

Attorneys for the City of Cameron and plaintiffs R. T. Griffin and wife, Cora Griffin, of Cameron, today were planning to file for a bench judgment in a major civil damage suit against the city.

A parade of witnesses, including present and former city officials, testified before a 12 - man district petit jury Monday and Tuesday.

After four and one-half hours deliberation the Milam District panel Tuesday found the City responsible for sidewalk conditions at the time of the 1959 fall of Mrs. Griffin, recommending payment of $533.11 in medical expenses and $1,466.99 in damages.

FELL IN 1959

Mrs. Griffin fell and broke a hip December 9, 1959, claiming the cause was some small holes in the sidewalk on North Houston passing in front of the First National Bank and the building owned by Mrs. Joe Zalesky.

But the complicated, 19 - point jury verdict was headed for a later hearing before District Judge W. C. Wallace after plaintiff attorney Jay S. Fichtner and defense attorney John B. Henderson, Jr., planned to file for Court judgment.

The plaintiff's attorney had asked for about $40,000 in total damages in closing statements Tuesday. The original petition filed against the City, First National Bank and Mrs. Zalesky, owners of property passed by the sidewalk, had asked $112,869.72 in damages. A Court judgement in February, 1962, cleared First National Bank and Mrs. Zalesky of responsibility in the damage suit.

CHARTER ISSUE

The jury also found that the City had knowledge of the incident within a City Charter statute limitation of 180 days. Testimony of city officials including Mayor Coleman Duncum said that the city had no official record of the incident within the 180 - day notice period.

Griffin testified that he talked to Charles C. Smith, Jr., now city attorney, about the suit and assumed that he would discuss the incident before the Council.

City officials planned to appeal if the damages were upheld.

Appearing on the witness stand were: Lincoln Mondrik, former councilman; Roy Griffith and E. L. Wied, present or former councilmen; J. C. Andres, former city secretary and J. P. "Buddy" Fuller, present city secretary; Dr. T. E. Crump, attending physician; Sister Mary Nell, with records from St. Edward Hospital; Public Works Supt. J. B. Earle, Mrs. Griffin Burnett, witness to the fall; Mayor Duncum and Charles C. Smith, Jr.

Minutes of Cameron City Council meetings during the period following the incident and medical records showing medical treatment costs were introduced in evidence.

Mrs. Griffin testified most of the morning Monday on what happened in her fall December 9, 1959.

Jurors were: Henry Richter, Boyd Offield, R. D. Wise, G. T. Woods, Joe Tomerlin, Gene Fremil (foreman), Willie Dockall, Vaughn Jensen, W. W. Armstrong, O. S. Collins, Horace Bozeman and Leonard Pelzel.

During their deliberation, the jury called for clarification of three of the 19 charges.

Last Rites Held For Mrs. Glass, 58

Mrs Lester Glass, 58, co - owner of Glass, The Florist, died in a Cameron hospital Sunday.

Florists from throughout the state were in Cameron Monday for the funeral at 4 p. m. in the Marek-Burns Funera Home. Burial was in Oak Hill Cemetery. Officiating was Rev. Eugene Strickland, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church

Recognized as a leader in floral design, Mrs. Glass had been in the florist business since opening a shop in Belton in 1924. She was a favorite instructor for special floral design schools and was instrumental in starting a number of Central Texas retail florists.

Through the years her Christmas decorations had become a tradition in this area and attracted the attention of Hollywood when the Fox - Movietone News included her designs for Citizens National Bank in a Christmas newsreel. Her Christmas scenes at times included four and five foot figures, ones she designed and hand - crafted.

She sold her Belton shop in 1928 continuing to manage it until moving to Cameron in 1931 to manage the local florist business. She brought the Cameron retail firm in 1935.

Since that time Glass, The Florist has branched into a large wholesale business as well as operating an outlet in Rosebud, but Mrs. Glass continued to devote all of her time and talents to the Cameron store until suffering a stroke, September 19, 1958.

She was a life member of the Texas State Florist Association, a member of the Central Texas Allied Florists, the Business and Professional Womens Club, and the First Methodist Church.

Survivors are her husband; one son, Donald Glass of Cameron; two brothers, Royce Miller of Belton and Preston Miller of Pasadena; one sister, Mrs. Barton Smith of Fredrickburg and two grandchildren.

As a tribute to Mrs. Glass, florists in central Texas volunteered their time to make the more than 300 floral pieces sent in her memory.

Youth Recovering From Crash Here

Douglas Bryan, 16, is reported in satisfactory condition after being injured about 3:30 p. m. Tuesday when his motorcycle and a pickup truck collided at the intersection of Fifteenth and Houston Streets.

Melvin Halpain of Cameron, driver of the truck, was not injured.

Cameron Police Patrolman Bill Richter said Bryan was going north on Houston and Halpain east on Fifteenth when the accident occurred. Richter issued tickets to Halpain for failure to grant right-of-way and for driving without a drivers license.

Initials Still There

Great Debate Builds 'Stand

A Staff Feature

Hand carved initials dating around the early 1900's tell something about the age of the Cameron Park Bandstand, but they don't tell why it was built.

Natives of Milam's County seat remember well stories of their parents who were among the thousands who witness the grand opening of the band shell for the famous Hogg - Clarke gubernatorial debate of 1892.

That bandstand was built for that debate.

Since, it has become the focal point of big family reunions, church and civic picnics and last year was the site for a political rally for Milton Schiller before he was elected to the Texas House.

ADVANCED DELEGATION

Judge George Clark had an advance delegation touring Cameron the day of the debate. A picture of the group of people standing along side horses draped with the slogan "Turn Texas Loose" is displayed in the office of John B. Henderson, Sr., son of the man who introduced Clark's opponent, Jim Hogg.

Introducing Hogg, the gubernatorial candidate who won the governorship that year, was T. S. Henderson, one of the pioneers of the Milam area. Introducing Clark was W. T. Hefley, another pioneer.

But the bandstand went up, by public contribution, Henderson recalls, in time for the great debate, the first of which Texas daily newspapers took verbatim reports, according to The Dallas Morning News.

10,000 PEOPLE

The news reported that the crowd approached 10,000 people.

There was tremendous interest around the big trees that day, and one man setting in one of them challenged Hogg by yelling at him that day in 1892.

History is specific on the reason for the tremendous interest: Hogg advocated formation of the first Railroad Commission to regulate railroads in this state. Clark advocated "turning Texas loose, or keeping away from any state railroad regulatory body.

The debate must have been heated, if the results of the election that year indicated anything. The Dallas News noted that Hogg won less than a majority, 190,486 against 133,395 for Clark while a third Populist candidate drew 104,482.

BANDS, ORATORY

The old bandstand resounded with oratory that day. It has also resounded with the sounds of a local band for years, and the "brimstone preaching" of Ham and Ramsey who held revivals in a large wood auditorium just north of the park, not in the bandstand.

Kids still play there, running up the wide bandstand steps and along in the inside ledge seats around the bandstand. Here are carvings of "Bess, 1906" and hundreds of others dating through the early years of the century.

Beyond the big, white, frame structure, stand the pecans, and hackberries and other large trees. And behind remains the abandoned filled - in swimming pool that Cameron ladies for years beautified and had reinforced.

It was a park prior to the 1890's for sure, but that bandstand is a memorial to a hey - day in Texas political debate and a landmark in Milam County history.

The octagon shape was the standard design for bandstands, recalls Henderson. And the height of the structure carried the sound of voices or music across the breadth of the park.

It still overlooks on quieter summer days the fun of local kids playing in the swings and teeter-totters a few hunred feet north.

But if the bandstand could recall, as do the proud residents whose forebearers built it, it would remember the day 10,000 streamed around, filling the park and indeed the small and growing community of Cameron.

Control Flies Before They Are A Problem

COLLEGE STATION — A constant summer problem of every dairy farmer is the control of flies. This problem can best be solved by eliminating the places where flies breed, says Shannon Carpenter, area dairy sperialist with the Texas Agridultural Extension Servide.

For example, barnyard menure should be spread every three or four days to prevent flies from breeding in it. Marure can be stored in compost piles if it is treated chemically with equal parts of calcium cyanamid and superphosphate at the rate of one pound per bushel of manure, Carpenter explaines.

If flies do become a problem, chemicals can be used to kill them. Dairy barns can be sprayed with two and one - half percent solutions of malathion as often as needed, the specialist says. Care must be taken that these materials are not used in the milk room and that they do not contaminate feed and water. When used as recommended by the manufacturer, fly baits containing malahion or dipterex are afe to use in the barn, he adds.

Cows in milk may be treated by dusting them with methoxychlor or malathion. One tablespoon of 50 percent methoxychlor or two ounces of five per cent malathion sprinkled along the neck and back of each animal will protect it for about three weeks. However, Carpenter warns that these materials should be applied at lease five hours before milking and animals should not be dusted in the milking barn. He also emphasizes that these chemicals should not be sprayed on the cow.

COTTON REPORT

Cotton Insect Report For Last Week in May

An effective cotton insect community tour was held at Thorndale on May 27. Flea hopper infestations were noted in cotton fields that had not been poisoned for 6 days. All fields should be checked for flea hoppers and poison applied if needed. Worm infestation was noted in fields that had been treated with the strong medicins such as Methyl parathion and Guthion. These "quick - kill" insecticides should not be used unless boll weevils are present.

An unusually pleasant situation through May has been the low boll weevil infestation in all fields. This was due possibly to the early harvest and destruction of cotton stalks last fall. Cotton crop prospects continue good throughout the county.

Texas - Oklahoma Summary

Spot cotton trading in southwestern markets continued in the off season slump, according to the USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service. Prices were unchanged from a week earlier. Most trade interest was focused on CCC's export sales and Cotton Division reclassification for claim purposes.

Domestic mill purchases were light and generally for prompt and nearby deliveries. Interest increased some for forward sales but resulted in little busines as mills were reluctant to pay most shipper prices. Foreign spinner activity was slow with most inquiries for comparison purposes.

AUSTIN: Crops made excellent progress throughout most of the territory. Some replanting and planting continued; however, most acreage is seeded. Winter Garden crops looked unusually good with abundant moisture present.

Line the grill with aluminum foil, then all sand, gravel or pellets. This helps prevent burned out grills, reflects the heat and absorbs drippings.

By James Hollas

Summer time is here and millions of Americans are headed to the lake, the beach, the pool or any swimming hole.

For a lot it will be a pleasant, relaxful experience and a chance to get away from the fast moving life.

But for some it will mean disaster. There may be a drowning and the day will end in tragedy.

Most drownings take place when rules of water safety are not obeyed. Good common sense will take care of most cases but there is one rule that needs to be stressd. And that is the rule: learn to swim.

Green, pool manager, will start teaching his fourth year. He estimates that he has taught over 400 kids how to swim.

He teaches the students the methods of swimming used by the American Red Cross in all of its classes. One of thte most important things that he teaches the kids is their limitations. If they know that they can swim far they won't panic if they need that distance to get to safety. And also they won't be as likely to try to swim too far if the distance would get them into trouble.

The SMU footballers' objective is to teach them the basic skills of swimming and water safety.

He suggests that the kids be able to stand up in the three foot water. Having completed the first grade also helps as they are able to pay attention and follow instructions1 They start at the very beginning. First, they adjust to the water. Then they start with the different body positions and they learn to float and breath.

Then come the kicks and strokes. All of the basic elements are put together and soon they are swimming.

Bit by bit they advance and Green estimates that the average students can, after two weeks of lessons, swim across the pool every time they try. But these kids will continue to improve as they come in swimming and they show off their newly earned skills to mom and pop.

He also said it is a lot easier for a stranger to teach a youngster how to swim. And you can be sure that the swimmer will have a sound basis for any further instructions they may receive.

The first class is already full and the second two weeks class is beginning June 24. Anyone wishing to enroll their children should contact Green at the pool.

The cost is only five dollars for the two weeks. The enjoyment the kids get out of knowing how to swim is worth more than the price of the lessons.And that does not even include your peace of mind.

Legislator Reports

Schiller Says 58th Economy Minded

The 58th Legislature made a very good record of accomplishment, Rep.Milton J. Schiller, of Cameron, said last week following its adjournment, despite the controversy with Gov. John Connally that highlighted the closing days of the session.

Schiller pointed out that the session ran only 137 days -- 3 days short of the 140 days set by law. This is the first time that a Legisalture has quit short of its full term since 1931.

The three days saved the State approximately $45,000, since it costs $14,850 per day, not including legislators' salaries, to conduct a legislative session.

ECONOMY MIDED

It was an economy - minded Legislature, Schiller reported.

The Appropriations committee, of which he is a member, reported out a bill for 3.1 billion dollars to run the state for the next two years, and it passed both House and Senate although it was several million dollars less than Gov. Connally recommended.

The committee, however, felt that it gave him ample funds for his education needs.

Another instance of economy was the way the Contingent Expenses committee limited spending to $700. for each House member in contrast to the 57th Legislature's allowance of $1,200 a representative.

CHIEF LEGISLATION

Among the more important pieces of legislation enacted, Schiller believes were:

The so - called 'loan shark" law to regulate small loans. This had been considered by several earlier legislatures.

A bill to provide for voter registration in Texas if the poll tax amendment is repealed.

Setting up a study commission to determine higher education needs.

Rep. Schiller stated that of three bills he co - authored, one was enacted. It changed the names of West Texas State College of Canyon, and A & M College at College Station, to Universities.

When The Wilderness Hears.....

The voice of education is being heard throughout Texas:

ITEM: Gov. John Connally has appointed his "Committee of 25" to study Texas higher education. This group of people, of widely educated backgrounds, will return sometime in the future, not a condemnation of Texas colleges and universities, but recommendations for their improvement.

ITEM: The influential East Texas Chamber of Commerce is urging the endorsement of a return "to intellectual development" postulated by Dr. Calvin E. Gross, new superintendent of New York public schools.

At other times, the voice is heard and denied.

ITEM: The conference committee of the Texas House and Senate denied Gov. Connally's request for additional funds to bolster higher education in Texas, some several million which went instead to "pork barrel" projects for local areas.

ITEM: Rockdale two weeks ago dedicated a new $35,000 library, much of which was provided by a California neurosurgeon's donations in behalf of his mother, once a resident there. U. S. Supreme Court Justice Tom Clark was the principal speaker.

ITEM: Cameron's Public Library has received approval of a $2,500 annual fund, starting in October. And a summer program for pre-schooler to sixth grader begins this month.

There is perhaps a fear of education's strides because of the constant charge in technical education requirements. But those problems are for the institutes, the technical schools both secondary and post graduate level, the specialty training courses offered throughout the state and nation.

Real education could be summarized as New York's Dr. Gross feels it should be: Where "every citizen of this country, whether he pounds nails, raises corn, designs rockets or writes poetry, should be taught to know and love his American heritage; to use the language well; to understand the physical universe; and to enjoy the arts." says the "East Texas" magazine, voice of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Such background provides the framework for communicating and understanding the basic present and future. Technical stuff should come later.

If the academic voice is heard in Texas higher education, it will also be heard in secondary and primary systems. And the example of good libraries well supported and good schools well taught will have untold good effect on the progress of this Lone Star State.

Broader View For Agriculture

A spokesman at the United Nations made it abundantly clear this week that half of the world has more than ever scarcely enough to eat.

The biggest problem is finding a way for starving peoples to pay for the food they themselves cannot raise.

There is no question we have the production, not the Communist Bloc. Should we decide that production can be increased as new markets are found, then our agriculture would be rewarded both with a wider market and a purpose of bringing people to dignity above the subsistance level.

This broader view can bring prosperity to a major economy which in recent years has been stunted by its own productivity.

Dr. Parker To Attend Convention

Dr. Joe R. Parker of Cameron is one of 600 Texas chiropractors planning to attend the 30th anniversary convention of the Texas State Chiropractic Association in Houston June 13-15.

Theme of the 1963 convention will be "insurance," Dr. Bill F. Garie-py of Houston, convention chairman, has announced.

PM

Mrs. Maude Mullinax has returned from Premont where she spent three weeks with her daughter Mrs. C. J. Patton and family. She went to see her granddaughter Patricia Ann graduate from high school.

Rumors Heard On Special Session

By Vern Sanford

Most presisent rumor is that Gov. John B. Connally will "line-item" veto the appropriations bill, which he contends "short-changes" higher education .... then call a special session in the fall.

In a "line - item" veto he would strike out items he considers unnecessary. Then try to convince Legislators that the money should go to higher education instead.

Some lawmarkers think they will be called back in September. Others pick October. Those who predict a fall session believe they again will have to tackle the subject of congressional redistricting. They didn't agree to a solution in the regular session.

SPEAKER SATISFIED

Tunnell said he is making no vacation plans until he is certain he won't be called on to preside over the House in late June or July.

But the Speaker stated he was well satisfied with the budget passed by the Legislature. He said, "They apparently did what they thought was right, and I for one will stand behind them."

"The 58th Legislature met its challenge and did its work," Tunnell said proudly.

There were many times during the 58th session when the Speaker and the House seemed at odds. But when the session ended most House members agreed that Tunnell had been a good referee.

"I have never asked anything but the right to take my position and give another man the same right," Tunnell stated when the bustle of the 58th dissolved into post - session silence.

"That is what I really like about the House: There is such a mixture of philosophies, ranging from liberals like Bob Eckhardt to mine Somewhere in between may be where the answer lies."

INSTANT RAILROAD COMMISSION

Many nice things have been said about Jim C. Langdon since Governor Connally appointed him to the Railroad Commission to re - place Bill Murray. One thing for sure, he adapts to changes easily.

In two short hours, Langdon resigned as chief justice of the El Paso Court of Civil Appeals; withdrew from the race for the State Supreme Court place which Judge Frank Culver of Fort Worth is expected to leave; was sworn in as Railroad Commissioner; announced as a candidate for re - election in 1964 and went right to work.

Then he and Commissioner Ben Ramsey made the announcement the oil and gas industry was waiting for -- a 28 per cent allowable for June.

GOVERNORS' CHOICE

Landon's appointment was the third he has received during three administrations.

Gov. Allan Shivers appointed him 112th District Judge in 1954. He was elected to that bench twice. Then Gov. Price Daniel appointed him Chief Justice of the El Paso Court in 1959. This post he resigned to accept Governor Connally's appointment.

BILLS VERSUS LAWS

A quick tabulation of the results of five months of labor by the 181 members of the 58th Legislature reveals that only about 31 per cent of the bills passed both House and Senate, to become laws.

A total of 1,723 bills were introduced. Of these, 534 were passed to law. Most of the weeding - out was done by committees. They reported as favorable only 786 bills as compared with 906 in 1961.

SUPREME COURT BACKS COMMISSION

State Supreme Court upheld the Railroad Commission's right to authorize an operator in a particular-lot: One to decide whether to abolish the poll tax; one asking whether to extend the Veterans' Land Program and increase bonds; and one asking voters whether the state should increase from $54,000,000 to $60,000,000 state funds that can be spent each year on federal-state asistance for old folks, children, the blind and disabled.

Then he came to a fourth -- a proposed amendment to authorize a retirement and benefit program for Jeferson County drainage district employees. One clause referred to a November 9, 1963, election Another set the election for November 1964.

oil field to conduct a survey of another operator's well to determine if it was illegally slanted.

L&G charged that a Railroad Commission order permitting Tidewater Oil Company to authorize Sperry - Sun Surveying Company to run a slant - hole survey on an L&G well in the East Texas field was illegal.

The 126th District Court in Austin had supported the Railroad Commission's order.

But when the Supreme Court affirmed the right to give the order, it said it was improperly worded and sent the case back to the trial court.

Two members of the high court, however -- Associate Justices Meade F. Griffin and Joe Greenhill -- disagreed with their colleagues.

"To allow a citizen or corporation -- a potential foe in litigation-- to go upon and take notice of another's property without even so much as an opportunity to be heard is a clear violation of the due process clause of the Texas and Federal constitutions," they stated.

DATE MIX — UP

On or about August 1, Secretary of State Crawford Martin has to start publishing proposed amendments to the constitution that will be up for a vote in a special election on Saturday, November 9.

Martin checked out the first three amendments scheduled for the ballot.

Out Of The Past

In 1901

The North Elm Baptist Church was dedicated with a special service followed by 'an elegant dinner spread by the people of that community."

"Prof. W. C. Taber has completed the scholastic census of Cameron and has a total enrollment of 776 pupils of which 518 are whites and 258 colored."

IN 1938

Rep. George Newton announced that he would withdraw from the race for re - election to the House of Representatives and Joe A. Slavik of Marak announced his candidacy for Representative from Milam County.

Voters turned down by 70 votes the proposal to buy the Cameron Country Club property for a city park.

Opening Awaits Applicants For Children's Camp

A. W. McCullin is processing applications. Anyone desiring to send someone to the camp may contact him.

The camp is free to the blind, mute, deaf and crippled children of Texas between the ages of 7 and 16. It has 17 permanent buildings and is filled with 720 children each year.

There will be five, two - week sessions at the camp. The children learn to swim, to camp outdoors and to develop new skills in various handicrafts.

The camp is valued at over $600,000 and is financed by dues of Lions and by gifts from members, clubs and friends of crippled children.

The camp is open the year around. From May to September the camp is used for Crippled children and from September to May it is used as a training center for the adult blind.

Philosopher Says He's In Favor Of Graduates Who Won't Set The World On Fire

Dear editar:

As you know, this is the time of year when graduating classes get to hear a lot of advice and I've ben reading some of it from around the country and so far I haven't heard smething mentioned which I'd like to bring out myself.

I don't mean to say the advice isn't sound, it is, regardless of how little of it will be taken. In the world's entire history there never has been a shortage of advice, and like everything else we've got a surplus of, the price has never been high.

Most commencement speakers, especially at colleges, exhort the graduates to work hard and achieve and amount to as much as the speakers, but they've got to do better than that if the world's going to hold together. Right now, we're at the point where a disarmament conference feels safer if it's meeting close to a bomb shelter.

Now the point I'd like to bring out is that in nearly every graduating class, except of course the one in Cameron, there's always a certain number about whom some folks predict, with about the accuracy of a weather forecast, "Well, they wont set the world on fire."

I tell you, that's exactly the kind of young people I'm looking for. If this world needs anything, it's somebody who won't set it on fire.

Go to the moon, orbit the earth, invent a tail pipe that won't rust out, perfect a drip - dry car fender that straightens out its own dents, eliminate racial strife, abolish slums, lower taxes, bring television to Africa, shave Castro, control the weather, grow food in a test tube, de - salt the ocean, eliminate flies and mosquitoes, write more books, find a funny commedian on TV, eliminate crime, make honesty convenient, outwit the Russians, bring peace on earth, but don't set it on fire.

Yours faithfully,

J. A.

He suggests a visit with the county agent for control measures.

HELD DOWN OR LIFTED UP
"CHRIST... IN WHOM WE HAVE REDEMPTION THROUGH HIS BLOOD, THE FORGIVENESS OF SINS, ACCORDING TO THE RICHES OF HIS GRACE" —EPH. 1:7
GOD'S FORGIVENESS
SIN

How did this man get from "down" to "up"? By his own strength? No, because the strength of sin is greater than man's strength. By a miracle? That's one way to express it. By faith? That's another way to say it. By faith in the Christ who has miraculous power to reach down, pick up, lift up, and hold up!

"I waited patiently for the Lord; and He inclined unto me, and heard my cry. He brought me up also out of an horrible pit, out of the miry clay—"

If you are not "this man", you can become "this man" by faith in the Son of Man: Jesus, the Christ.

Court Rules No On Georgetown School Erection

The Third Court of Civil Appeals held last week, in the first decision of its kind according to the Dallas Morning News, that a school district cannot spend its money building segregated facilities.

The case came from Georgetown in neighboring Williamson County, where a group of citizens supporting racial integration had filed a lawsuit opposing issuance of $525,000 in bonds which the district voted last July by a large majority.

Chief Justice Roy C. Archer wrote:

"The Georgetown Independent School District is enjoined from spending any funds for the purpose of constructing any building or other segregated facility which is designed, planned or calculated to provide segregated schools within the district where such segregation is based solely upon the race or color of the students segregated."

An appeal to the State Supreme Court is expected.

Three districts in Williamson County have dropped segregation. They are Andice, Jarrell and Liberty Hill.

Battetown Calls Rockdale Pastor

The membership of the Battetown Baptist Church has called Rev. William B. Waldrop to serve their church, and a representative of the Church asked The Herald to extend an invitation to the public to hear Rev. Waldrop.

A resident of Rockdale, he is well known in the Milam County area. He is married and has two sons, a college student and a high school student.

Rev. Waldrop has been the guest speaker at the Battetown Church for the past few weeks and will move his family to Cameron as soon as repairs to the Parsonage are completed.
